“ I feel honored to have met Clarence in 2005 and gotten to know him, his wife Fredi, and the Marchand family. He had a quiet strength and dignity and kindness, and he loved his family so much. I will treasure photos of him and Fredi at granddaughter Sydney's middle-school graduation, and at daughter Nicole's home just after great-granddaughter Payton was born and granddaughter Megan was a year old. I am so glad my Last Big Train Trip was in 2019, before the pandemic year, for I got to see Clarence for Easter one last time. He was a wonderful man, and I'm so sorry for the family's loss. Rest in Peace, dear Clarence.
