

Leonard D Brown Jr

September 8, 2025

Leonard D. Brown, Jr. was affectionately known as “LB” and “Lil Leonard”. He entered into eternal light on September 8, 2025 in Houston, Texas. He was born on January 2, 1973 to Leonard D. Brown, Sr. and Delois G. Brown (Jones) and was the beloved stepson of Bruce Jones.

He attended Louis F. Schwartz Elementary, Edna Karr Junior High and Marion Abramson High School. Leonard was a precocious, intelligent and gregarious person who connected to others with his natural communication gifts and talents. His love and dedication to his family and friends knew no bounds! Throughout his life, his infectious spirit touched countless hearts, leaving an indelible mark. His gifts were apparent in his work as a sales consultant and was noticeably influential in the local hospitality industry. He was ubiquitous in that he sustained closeness with countless family and friends both near and far.

LB will be fondly remembered for his fierce protectiveness of his sisters, generous spirit, infectious sense of humor, that haughty unforgettable laugh, and no-nonsense straight talk. The warmth that radiated from his soul was hard to miss. LB. treasured his brother-in-laws and together they shared many great times especially shooting pool.

He willingly gave his life to Christ and was baptized at The New Orleans Church. He leaves a legacy of love, cherished memories, and a heartfelt impact on us all.

He leaves to mourn his parents Bruce and Delois Jones, his children Ariana

Brown, Jacob Leonard Brown, and Lauren Brown. Siblings: Pastor Debra B. Morton (Bishop Paul S. Morton, Sr.) Leonard Brown, Jr. (Alicia), Sharon B. Sterling (Merlin), Janice Lee (Tracy), Laverne Thompson, Ranard Brown, Arlene Davis (Kelvin), Darlene Swearington (Daris) and Javelle Ford (Marlon). He will be sadly missed by a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and a litany of friends who were more like brothers.

Though Leonard's physical presence may be gone, his spirit will forever resonate in the hearts of those who were blessed to share his life journey. We will keep his spirit alive! May our loved one rest in eternal peace until we meet again.

“ I'm having the hardest time. Writing something on your obituary page is hard to comprehend! I'm still lost, but I wanted to stop by and say I love you big brother and I miss you deeply!!! You were 1 of 1! I'm so thankful I got to experience the time we had together! Your memory will forever live on.

“Baby Bro, the coming of age is always better than the completion of age! That's just how life is! It's the middle part that we love. I loved how you loved. And that's what we'll all remember. That's who you were, Love wrapped in fire! And I thank God for your time with us.

“I'm still in a fog! I truly don't know where to begin or how to end, i still don't know how to process that I'm even here doing this, Bro. this has truly hurt my soul, the value we shared of each other is something people don't really understand what that was like, even as young boys we would hang out on Boddenger, then the Willows, Lakewind East, Wave Dr. then to Adulthood, i can truly say we watched each other go from Boys to Men. They say God never gives you more then you can handle, this is definitely testing all the strength i have, all the faith i have & every fiber of my well being, but i hold on to the memories & brotherhood we shared even with teary eyes i smile thinking abt the 3 sometimes even 4- 5 times a week calls, from us just talking junk to each or even adding others to the call which would turn into our own family def comedy jam, There has been many other people added to the friendship but the constant was always us no matter if it was Charles, Lil Bit, Dev, Polo, Jerrad, Jamal, Kendrick, Fred, Renard, Sean, Mike, Binky, Lil John, Varrick, Vincent & several others but we were the two main constants. Man i truly could write a book on us and still have more to add.

Bro. I will do everything i know you would have done for me in your absence

“ Leonard D. Brown Jr. My BIG lil cousin. Inside joke.

Too many memories to narrow down, too many stories to share right now.

Right now it's still wow, wondering why, how, when we'll see again, my cousin, my brother, my friend.

Always there when I needed him.

Planted seeds and watered them, again and again.

When life got hectic we stayed connected. Unaffected by time and space.

God reserved a space for us.

No arguments no fuss, but we fought just for the fun of it.

Whether you called me "lit" or full of the Spirit, we loved each other and that's it.

I miss you cuz! Thank you being the man you was to help me be the man I am. You're still helping be to be the best version of who God created me to be.

That's legacy!

That's LB!

“ This page is not long enough for all that I can say. I will start off by saying Brudda I miss the everyday calls and text and inboxes and fb post that I once endured. Brudda I sit in my lil silent space and reflect on all of the things we've shared and there is not one moment with you that was a sad one. Bru you're the only male friend I had that I could talk to about anything and you would keep it a buck fifty. We weren't blood but I'm going to bat for you like we were. I'm glad I've gotten the chance to meet someone like you because they don't exist anymore. You were supposed to be here to help me celebrate my big day but God had something planned for you already and just because it's him I'm okay with it. I'll see you again. I'm going to leave you with what you would always tell a lot of people on a daily and that was Keep Your Head Up in my LB voice and I swear I'm going to do just that just for you. I promise I'll see you again and I'll never forget you. I love you “ Leonard... I really don't know where to start, however just know you are truly missed. So I when covid happen we all had a really hard time. I shared on social media that I was laid off of my job. Several people responded to the message however you did something really unexpected.... you call me at 12:11 am. And encourage me that life was going to be ok. You told me not to tell anyone you called not sure why. I didn't tell anyone until you left us. Now I hold on to this memory and forever will. We love you always LB.

“ LB you were the one we loved to dote on — the baby of the family, you were so full of laughter and full of life! Your jokes, and endless one-liners I will miss. No matter how grown we all got, you never stopped being our fierce protector — always looking out for your big sisters with that fierce, quiet love that only you could give!

I miss your voice, your humor, and the way you made my life feel lighter. You'll always be my little brother — forever loved, forever missed, and forever in my heart 🌟 Rest in Eternal light.
