“ Dad had a unique and colorful way of describing people and events. One of his favorite "made up" names for any male was Rooney, and for a female was "Lil Momma". You could not listen to one of his stories without laughing so hard that tears would roll down your face; He also enjoyed sharing his wisdom, and life lessons. Sometimes forgetting that he had already shared that one with you. When I was younger I enjoyed the pints of ice cream he would buy each of us on Sundays that we ate watching Gunsmoke I can still taste his delicious spaghetti and fried pies. He was always thrilled when I told him it was better than Mothers. (Smile}. What I remember most about Dad and am extremely thankful for is that when our father deserted us, he accepted us and took us in. He was a hard worker and taught us how to work and become functional, independent adults. If you knew him then you know that he wasn't perfect, but he supported us and taught us many life lessons! He was My Dad! Thank You Dad, I will miss you Greatly.
Love Linda
